FORCES READY TO OVERCOME COAL SHORTAGE

Railroads Will Be Called Upon To Use Soft Coal In Case of Emergency—Full Plans Not Announced

INTERESTS OF MINERS AND OPERATORS ARE SUBMERGED

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Although not ready to reveal its plans the federal government is preparing to move decisively to prevent serious consequences from threatened suspension of anthracite production September 1. Nto only will the railroads use soft coal products and state governments be expected to do what they can to minimize suffering and demoralization of industry but federal officials in every agency from the White House down will stand ready to throw their weight and their authority into the balance if it becomes necessary. In preparations being made for eventualities possibilities for averting a final break between operators and miners are almost completely submerged. There are no indications today in any quarter that further overtures for settlement of justice in state complete preparedness.

LEGION FAVORS COMMUNITY LAND SETTLEMENT FOR DISABLED VETERANS

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 21.—The investigation of community land settlement for disabled men in Minnesota has disclosed that though in some instances veterans may not be making their way, in principle, the project is doing much to favor the return of the former soldiers to their station in life. After an exhaustive research made of the conditions in several of such colonies in the state by Veterans' Bureau officials, Director Hines has given this report to Joe Sparks, chairman of the national rehabiliation committee of the legion with the bureau's findings:

Veterans' Bureau officials have been speculative as to the possibilities of community land development by disabled men. For a time it seemed that the reports that the men were failing on the land alloted them, and that this would preclude any wide use of the scheme as a method of rehabilitation. Reports of their success, however, showed in this manner, farm products might be standardized to such an extent that the veterans would be protected that by price fluctuation, group settlement would afford a lower cost of production, and the medical attention was more nearly possible for the men, than if they were sent out under a placement method.

To do this, the bureau investigators declared would entail a careful selection of land on account of soil fertility, so that labor in production would not become too much of a hardship on the man assigned lands. Consideration of the men given the tracts, according to the veterans' bureau men, has much to do with the success, their contention being that physically handicapped men should be given small tracts of special forming work. The investigation included porjects at Orchard Lake, Onamia, Veteransville, Silver Star and Moose Lake, all in Minnesota. Several of the colonies were made the object of special investigations by the American Legion in Minnesota, and favorable reports made on them.

THOUSANDS FLEE FROM CATACLYSM

Colorado Floods Reported To Have Rendered Thousand Homeless Today

By Associated Press

FOWLER, Colo., Aug. 23.—Approximately a thousand persons are homeless today and damage estimated at a million was done by flood waters following the breaking of an irrigation dam near here. Houses, carcasses of domestic animals, and huge trees are tumbling along the flood crest. Telephone messages previously warned valley inhabitants that the flood was coming. The famous Rocky Ford cantaloupe area is floodswept and the crop destroyed.

Wisconsin "Judge of Publicity" Suppresses Stories That Injure Juveniles

Henry Noll is known in Madison, Wis., as "judge"—"judge of publicity." It's an unofficial job and something in the nature of a censorship, but a censorship of a sort to which even newspaper men are unlikely to object.

For one thing, Noll's a newspaper man himself—a very experienced one. And his censorship's of his own paper's creation.

It's establishment followed criticism of the publicity given by the press to juvenile court cases.

It frequently happened, the critics pointed out, that boys and girls with whom there really wasn't much wrong, got into trouble on account of mere indiscretions or exultitions of high spirits, committed offenses for which a good talking to, maybe, was penalty enough; and yet, getting into juvenile court, attracted such attention to themselves that they became marked characters forever afterward, and sometimes had their whole lives ruined in consequence.

It Did Seem Hard

The critics contended that when publication of such cases served no good end, it ought to be avoided.

The Wisconsin State Journal recognized that publicity of this kind did seem hard, so it chose Henry Noll, one of its own special writers, to pass on all cases involving youthful offenses, before printing them.

Accordingly all stories of this type come to Noll's desk. They come to him from courts and police stations, or are personally turned in to him by the reporters, or, if the city editor happens to get them first, they're passed on to Noll for consideration. Nobody, not even the Journal's publisher, is permitted to question his decisions.

His Discisions Final

If Judge Noll feels that publication of a story will benefit the public, in it goes. If he thinks it will injure some youngster, with no compensating advantage to the community, he kills it.

So far as Madison knows, Noll's the first man even to hold such a position. His publicity court has attracted the attention of welfare organizations in many cities, in some of which movies have been made to induce their own newspapers to follow the Journal's example.

POWELLS VALLEY H. SCHOOL OPENS

Board of Education Makes It a First Class School—Attendance Large

CUMBERLAND GAP, Aug. 23.—The Powells Valley high school opened August 20, with an overflowing attendance. The teachers are Prof. H. E. Wallace, principal, Miss Anne Strong, Miss Jo Lee Bruce, Mr. H. H. Rogers, Miss Ruby Farris, Miss Ina Rogers, and Miss Edna Sharp. Music. All teachers have reported for duty except Miss Bruce who is attending the summer school at the University of Tennessee.

At a recent meeting of the County Boar lof Education a resolution was passed raising the school to a first class nigh school. The board also voted some new equipment. The teachers with the aid of Superintendent Baldwin are puting in a standard course including the teachers' training course. This course is offere dto seniors who after graduation will be granted a certificate by the state to teach one year.

Prof. F. C. Graunis of the Smith-Hughes Agricultural work for this half of the county and who is stationed at Lincoln Memorial University has offered his services two days each week at this school to inaugurate the Smith-Hughes work to begin just as soon as the community and the baord get the equipment ready.

The community and school are each planning to put on an exhibit at the Tri-County Fair at LaFollette next week.

AMERICA OBJECTS TO GREAT BRITAIN'S SILVER CONTROL

LONDON, Aug. 23.—On September 4 a bunch of Americans will gather at Reno, Nev., to issue a second declaration of independence from Great Britain.

The first gathering of Americans some 150 years ago objected specifically to what Britain does with the prices of silver. The meeting 150 years ago was participated in only by colonials The one in September will be participated in by Canadians, South Americans and probably Mexicans.

Senator Taskar L. Oddie of Nevada is the moving spirit o fthe September meeting. He has invited the leading world producers of silver to discuss a method of combining so as to defeat the silver combine which, it is charged, controls the prices of the silver market in the world through a group of powerful London firms. The Reno meeting will represent 80 per cent of the world's silver production.

It is one of the anomalies of world commerce that England fixes world proces for many important things. It can fix the wool price, because a great part of the world's raw wool is produced in the British empire. The same applies to raw furs. Even when it comes to wheat, England maintains itself by reason of the crops grown in Canada, Australia and India and by the further fact that Argentine wheat is largely carried in British ships.

But silver is produced on a large scale in only one part of the empire—Canada. Nevertheless, through London's grip on the China and India markets, it has up to now fixed the price of silver bullion. At Reno it will be proposed that the producers organize an export corporation to control the placing of silver on the market.

Four London firms of silver brokers, it is contended, largely fix the prices. These are Samuel Montagu & Co., Prixley and Abell, Mocatta and Goldsmid, and Sharps and Wilkins.

All of these have grown very rich and the Montagu firm has especially prospered. Baron Swaythling, sits in the House of Lords. His clever brother, Edwin Samuel Montagu, until recently sat in the House of Commons and, under Lloyd George, was secretary of state for India, one of the most important of all cabinet posts.

Their cousin, Sir Herbert Samuel, is British high commissioner for Palestine and also a former cabinet officer.

MINING COAL IS BECOMING SAFER

The Rate of Deaths From Accidents Has Been Almost Cut in Half Since 1907

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Every year the occupation of mining coal becomes safer. According to figures recently issued by the Department of Labor, the rate of deaths from accidents in coal mines has been almost cut in half since 1907. The decline in the death rate has been a steady one from that time until the present, the official figures show.

While this decline in the death rate has been going on, the same tables show an almost corresponding increase in the production of coal for each fatality. The introduction of safety devices in mining coal, together with the perfection of mining methods, mainly account for the continual decline in the fatality rate and the rise in the rate of production.

The Department of Labor figures deaths in coal mining in connection with the "hours of exposure"—the time spent in the mines by the workers. In 1907 for each 1,000,000 hours of exposure the fatality rate was 2.06. This declined to a rate of 1.20 in 1921, the last year for which the records are complete.—a decline of 41 per cent. Meanwhile, the production of coal per death rose 71 per cent.

Examination of official figures of actuaries in many states recently exploded the theory that coal mining is a hazardous undertaking, by comparison with other means of earning a livelihood. In the state of Indiana, for example, there are more than 100 other occupations for which their insurance rates are higher and the industrial death rate likewise higher. Running farm machinery, cleaning windows, house painting, and a host of other common daily pursuits are actually more dangerous undertakings than mining coal, figures show.

U. M. W. OFFICIALS TO BE HERE SOON

Bittner And Turnblazer Will Be Here In Interest Organization Work

Van A. Bittner, personal representative of John L. Lewis, national president of the United Mine Workers, and William Turnblazer, president of District 19, have left for a tour of mine districts in southeastern Kentucky and Tennessee. They will address mass meetings of miners at Coal Creek, this afternoon; Gatliff, Ky., Wednesday; Pineville, Ky., Thursday; Harlan, Ky., Friday and Middlesboro, Sunday.

These meetings are being widely advertised by circulation of letters out of the Knoxville office and by posters throughout the fields.

All of the meetings have been arranged by invitation of the miners, who are desirous of perfecting the union organization according to Mr. Turnblazer.

"The miners are going to use every honorable means at their command to establish in southeastern Kentucky and Tennessee a right of the coal miners," said Mr. Turnblazer before leaving.

CHEVROLET AGENCY IS TRANSFERRED

The local agency for the Chevrolet automobile will be transferred from the Howe-Lambert Motor Co., to the Evans and Ramey firm, about September 1, according to reports. The latter firm will organize a new corporation to be known as the Evans, Ramey Motor Sales Co.

The building adjoining the City Barber shop which was acquired by Evans and Ramey a few weeks ago and the new large brick building at the rear will be used as a sales and service station for the Chevrolet car. The front of the old building will be refinished and decorated and one side will be devoted exclusively to the display of Chevrolets.

The Evans and Ramey Co. will continue their agency for the Dort car. The Chevrolet will be handled by a different organization and will not interfere with the Dort agency. It is understood, also, that the Howe-Lambert Co., will continue the other work at their garage.

TENN. POWER CO. TO CONNECT HERE

Engineers In LaFollette Planning Transmission Route Which Will Join K. U. Here

Engineers of the Tennessee Electric Power company have been in LaFollette the past few days studying the problem of extending their high tension power line through this district from Knoxville, says the Press. It is understood that rights-of-way are acquired and it is positively stated by representatives of the power company that their line will be built from Knoxville to Coal Creek next year.

Undoubtedly the power will be extended to LaFollette later, and this will result in great benefit to all users of power hereabouts.

The voltage as far as Clinton or Coal Creek will be 110,000, and it is planned later, by the Tennessee company, to connect it all near Middlesboro with the Kentucky Utilities company.—Appalachian Trade Journal.

FIRST TOUCH OF WINTER IS FELT

Low Records Show Temperature Off 46 to 48 Degrees—May Relax in Some Parts Tonight

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—First tentative touch of winter brought record low August temperatures early today. It was off forty-eight degrees in Richmond and forty-six in Pittsburgh. Weather bureau reports indicated that a chill would spread during the next twenty-four hours through South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. Unseasonable weather is expected to relax somewhat tonight in the Ohio Valley and slightly elsewhere in the northeastern section of the country.

GENERAL COOL WAVE IS FELT IN MIDDLESBORO

The cool wave which is sweeping the country is being felt in Middlesboro. Last night the temperature reached a minimum of 58, an unusually low degree for midsummer. Yesterday afternoon the lowest temperature was 61. Cool weather is predicted by the weather department for tonight and tomorrow.

AIR MAIL SERVICE PROGRESSING WELL

Planes Started From New York and San Francisco Today—Records May Be Made

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Transcontinental air mail on the third day of the five days' test period gave promise today of establishing a record in the cross-day continent deliveries as the east and west bound planes which started yesterday approached the last of their journeys well ahead of schedules. Two other planes started today, one from New York and the other from San Francisco and they are also well on their aerial courses. Mail which started on the first day was delivered in San Francisco at 6:20 o'clock last night after having left New York at eleven o'clock Tuesday morning, while that which started from San Francisco on the same day was delivered in New York today after having been held up by a heavy fog over the Rockies.

COM. C. CUTHBERT ASSIGNED TO PA.

Salvation Army Executives Will Go To New Post On August 30 —Here One Year

Commandant and Mrs. Charles Cuthbert, Salvation Army leaders here, have received notice from divisional headquarters that they will be transferred to Bethlehem, Pa. They are expected to be at the new post August 30.

Four hundred executives of the Salvation Army are being transferred now, according to Commandant Cuthbert, and large divisions are being divided into smaller ones; the service is being extended constantly into new places. He has been expecting for some time to be transfrred to another town. At Bethlehem he will have the same rank that he has here.

The Commandant and Mrs. Cuthbert have been in Middlesboro a year during which time they have made many friends who will be sorry for them to leave. Farewell services will be held Sunday. At Nineteenth and Lothbury it will be held at 3:30; at 7 o'clock it will be held in front of Lee's drug store and at 8 o'clock in the Salvation Army hall.

The successor to Commandant Cuthbert has not been announced.

WASHINGTON'S VISION OF A NATIONAL CATHEDRAL IS BECOMING A REALITY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Preparations have been made here for the completion of the National Cathedral of the Protestant Episcopal church. Although four billion dollars has already been contributed only the apse of the great edifice on Mount St. Albin has been completed. It stands today higher than the Washington monument and overlooks the whole city. Recently, however, the Washington chapter of the church decided to push the work on the whole catherdal so that it may be completed within five years.

The National Cathedral, although started during the administration of President McKinley, is really a fulfillment of President Washington's dream of a "church for national purposes" which was provided for in the original plans of L'Enfant for the national capital. From the time that President McKinley attended the first open air services at the Cathedral every President, scores of cabinet officers and foreign diplomats and thousands of members of the Senate and House have been present on historic occasions at the Cathedral from the ceremonies following the conclusion of the Spanish-American war to the religious services in connection with the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments.

When the last stone has been placed and the cathedral opened it will be one of the largest and finest church buildings in the world. Surrounding the foundation and apse which are now complete, are the National Cathedral for Girls and a similar school for boys, a bishop's house, a library which is to be the most complete religious library in America and an amphitheatre which today accommodates 25,000 persons.

The next mammoth ceremony to be held at the Cathedral will be a public service on September 20, in connection with the consecration of the bishop-elect of Washington, the Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman.

SLEMP TALKS OF NEW PLANS FOR COUNTRY

President's Secretary Here a Few Minutes En Route Home—Coolidge To Carry Out Harding Plans

DOMESTIC TROUBLES TO RECEIVE ATTENTION FIRST

Being forced to abandon his car at Corbin and come the rest of the way on the train, Bascom Slemp, secretary to President Coolidge, did not stop over in Middlesboro last night but continued on his way home on train No. 23. He was met at the station by his brother-in-law, Dr. James P. Edmonds and his family, and by Judge J. L. Mauring and John H. Miller. He had only time to chat a few minutes with these old friends, and he expressed keen regret that his plans would not permit his lingering awhile in Middlesboro. The local people are disappointed that the secretary could not spend more time here.

Mr. Slemp stated that his appointment as secretary to the president came as a complete surprise. He was called to Washington by a telegram, and immediately upon his arrival he was summoned to President Coolidge's office. In discussing the matter of appointing a secretary, President Coolidge said that he felt it was fitting that a man from the South should help him in the personal and executive way which a secretary to the president is called upon to do, himself coming as he does from the East, and needing the counsel and experience of one from another section of the country. Mr. Slemp was enthusiastic about the personality of the president and about his opportunity to work in such close relation to the new executive in the coming months.

Asked his opinion in regard to the impending strike of anthracite coal miners, Mr. Slemp stated that he was not in close contact with the situation but that the president was sudying the matter carefully from every angle and that he was prepared to call into action every power of the government in preventing suffering on the part of the public, should the strike materialize. He said the president was prominently a man of careful and mature decision and of quick and definite action.

Mr. Slemp stated that he felt it was the president's policy to carry out in the main President Harding's plans, but there would be probably some minor differences in the program. While President Coolidge will promote some form of world court plan and will study the international problems carefully from every standpoint, it will be the policy of the administration to place the solution of domestic problems above everything else. In this connection, Mr. Slemp stated that the agricultural situation was far more grave than the average citizen realizes and that something must be done to help th efarmers. This, and the handling of the coal strike situation, are the two immediate tasks for the president to handle, but Mr. Slemp said he felt sure that an extra session of congress would not be called.

Mr. Slemp will assume his duties as secretary on September 4. He has been in the Hazard coal fields during the last few days looking after his coal interests. He was accompanied by his nephew, Wise Slemp.

A THOUGHT

For a small moment have I forsaken thee; but with great mercies will I gather thee. In a little wrath I hid my face from thee for a moment; but with everlasting kindness will I have mercy on thee.—Isa. 51:7, 8.

As freely as the firmament embraces the world, or the sun pours forth impartially his beams, so mercy must encircle both friend and foe.—Schiller.

RESPECT FOR THE DEAD

A recent visitor in Middlesboro, a man of culture and education who had traveled widely, said that the character of a city could, in general, be measured by its respect for the dead. Middlesboro, he stated, was woefully lacking in its care for the dead in that no proper cemeteries are provided.

There being no water in such burial places as we have, it is impossible to have growing flowers there, he pointed out.

As much as we dislike any criticism from visitors, we feel that this man's contention was well taken, that there was a great deal of truth in it.

In most respects Middlesboro is a thriving, flourishing town but it must be admitted that its cemeteries are little more than country graveyards.

Moreover, such burying grounds as we have are almost inaccessible in places, particularly in bad weather.

These conditions are not due to any particular person's negligence but rather to a certain indifference on the part of the town as a whole. Strong and in good health we do not like to think of cemeteries; it is a subject which we are prone to ignore.

We are of the opinion that Middlesboro should have a city cemetery, a well-kept burial place in which we would all take pride and which we could show visitors without embarassment.

BEST EXERCISE

The best exercise for fat women who want to reduce is scrubbing the kitchen floor, claims Mrs. Catherine H. Griebel, of N. J. State College of Agriculture

Maybe so, but it's like telling the tired business man it would do him as much good to get a caddie job as to play golf.

Wood chopping is about as fine exercise as there is. But there's no danger of wood chopping becoming the national sport.

People, when they "exercise," want to get away from work.

After all, it's a good thing for us to try to get our physical exercise in the form of play. Exercise helps the muscles and internal organs, but play makes the nerves relax, which is just as important as developing the muscles.

There isn't much relaxation of tense nerves when we combine hard work with our exercise.

The average person who "needs exercise" usually is the victim of nerves rather than of physical inactivity. This can be proved by going to bed and staying a week, thereby getting rest and nerve relaxation that will do many of us as much good as a whole season of golf.

It's a mistake to start a campaign of strenuous exercise unless we're prepared to get more hours of sleep than we've been used to.

Sleep does more good than all the pills, serums and other forms of "dope" ever devised.

The person who feels "all run down" should start his building-up campaign by getting plenty of sleep. Also by lying down several times during the day, for about 20 minutes at a time, to rest the overworked heart. Remember, when we're standing up the heart has to pump the blood stream the full height of the body. When lying down, gravity helps—the blood flows parallel with the ground, like water through horizontal pipes.

The second big need is fresh air and lots of it.

Exercise comes third. Combine it with play, to relax the nerves. There'll be plenty of time to scrub the floors and do other physical labor later.

Finally, the thing that is wrecking the nerves of the American people is needless rush—hurry at breakneck speed and without any special destination. We have to speed it at our work but it's time to slow down and "take things easy" when the bell rings and we quit our jobs until tomorrow.

WHAT WILL YOUR SON SAY WHEN YOU DIE

By Wilkes Wandeloh

The other day I attended the funeral of a highly successful business man whom I have known intimately for over a quarter of a century.

That evening as we sat in the twilight his son spoke to me.

"My father was my ideal.

"I never knew him to do a dishonest thing or even an ungenerous thing.

"I cannot recall an instance where he was unkind or even inconsiderate in his treatment of my mother.

"I cannot think of an instance when he was not kindness and consideration itself to me. He always made a chum and companion of me and I felt free to go to him with any problem no matter what it was.

"During the world war I saw him refuse to make a clear profit of one hundred and twenty five thousand dollars, because he felt that to do so would be to take an unfair advantage of the public and of the trade.

"He placed friendship always above business. He did not believe that friendship began only where business left off. He was willing to pay, and pay handsomely if necessary, for friendship.

"He held that to run a business equitably and ethically there must be betterment in business. As one result of this our factory never lacked for supplies during the war, while many of our competitors were having difficulty to keep going.

"In the years that I have been in business with my father I have never heard anyone speak unkindly of him.

"He was the most thoughtful man I ever knew. He was clean in mind and action. He had a high and wholesome and tender regard for people. At the same time he knew his own rights and insisted on these while giving the other fellow a square deal.

"He had the faculty of keeping out of quarrels with people. He contended that it is every man's responsibility to maintain harmony no matter what the other fellow would like to do.

"My father was a brave man. We have learned from his physician that for two years he had been suffering with the malady that caused his death, and he had concealed this from my mother and myself in order not to distress us.

"My father always has been and always will be my ideal of a man. My highest objective is to be the kind of man he was."

What will your son say about you when you are dead?

Telegram from John Alden Prescott to Leslie Prescott.

Leaving tonight. See you in the morning. I love you always.

Jack

Letter from Beatrice Grimshaw to her fiance, Richard Summers.

I confess, my dear Dick, that I was rather glad (rather selfish, to know that you were lonely in Hollywood without me. Among so many of the beautiful girls whom you have described so enthusiastically, one would readily think that you would want even me.

I know of course that great fortunes are made in Hollywood and in the business that you have taken up, and I am very glad if you are happy in your work. I have always been told that Hollywood was a very beautiful place and I am quite sure I shall enjoy it very much after our postponed wedding, "months and months" ahead.

I remember that girl of whom you spoke, Dick, and Paula Perier is her real name. She lived in Albany and when I visited there a year or two ago she was pointed out to me as the most beautiful girl in the city. If I remember her rightly, though, there was none of that understanding or spirituality in her face which you speak of, but, my dear Dick, both you and I know that one is not born with spirituality and understanding. One has to acquire it and fly through suffering and tears.

Do you know, dear, I sometimes think that people who do not understand are happiest. I shall be much interested in your letters from Hollywood, for the description that you have given me of some of those screen luminaries. Do they seem happy, Dick? Does the girl without understandings and spirituality in her face seem happier than does your little Paula Perier who you think has it?

There, I see you frown at my calling her "your Paula Perier." The word slipped into my letter almost without my volition, but really I do not know why I am so much interested in her. I am going to write Leslie about her. You know her husband, John Prescott has lived in Albany quite a long time. I met him when I visited there before Leslie was married and I expect to scorn her.

I remember a bit of gossip going around the town to the effect that even a young man in Albany was more or less in love with Paula Perier.

Write me often, dear and tell me just what your reactions are to all the temperamental people you see in the screen colony. Of course, I am interested in them. Every one is, you know and truly I don't believe they are as black as they are painted but rather they are "just as you and I," no better, no worse.

You and I, dear Dick, have never had any serious temptation. I have been wondering what either one of us would do if he were sorely tempted. You see I grow retrospective when you are not here, dear boy, to keep me in the active present; to keep me under your caressing eyes. Bee.

TOMORROW—Jack Prescott to his friend, Sydney Carton—His own child.

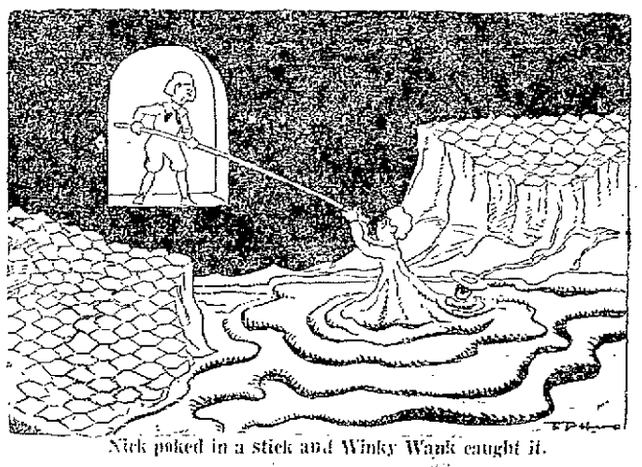
NO. 19—WINKY WANK IS RESCUED



Nick poked in a stick and Winky Wank caught it.

Mister Bee shook himself and shook himself but he couldn't shake Winky Wank, the Pee Wee boy, off his back.

Winky Wank winked one of his tiny black eyes and laughed and laughed at the joke he had played on everybody.

"My, but it's fun being an aviator," he cried. "Nothing else can buzz like an airplane except Mister Bee. I've ridden on every other kind of a bug but one of them can buzz as beautifully as he can. I wonder why mother never would let me ride him. When I go home I'll tell her how lovely it is 'n' everything and what a mistake she made not letting me ride on him before."

Winky Wank had run off from Pee Wee Land and jumped on Mister Bee when he wasn't looking. And Mister Bee was as mad as a hornet.

Bzzzz! Bzzzz! he went angrily, flying away from the posey vine and making straight for a row of funny things that looked like great big porridge bowls turned upside down.

Each one had a door away down—and before Winky Wank knew what was happening, Mister Bee made a dash for one of them and crawled inside.

It was so dark that Winky Wank couldn't see a thing at first. But he'd never heard such buzzing in all his life! He let go his hold on Mister Bee and held his hands over both ears.

And what did Winky Wank do but lose his balance and fall off!

And although he wasn't hurt one bit, he sank into sticky stuff up to his waist. And he couldn't move!

"Stay where you are!" said Mister Bee coldly. "You're a bad boy and nobody is going to help you."

"Yes, they are. We're going to help him," said a new voice. "We're hunting for him and we are going to take him back to Pee Wee Land at once."

My, but Winky Wank was thankful! Nick poked in a stick and Winky Wank caught it and was pulled out all covered with honey.

"I'll never go near a bee or a beehive again," he declared to the Twins.

Berton Braley's Poem

WELCOME

I had a good time for a while
When Ma and the kids were away.
I lived in true bachelor style
And I was exceedingly gay.
I held poker parties galore
While I was the boss of the shack,
But—being alone is a bore,
Thank Heaven, the family's back!

I reveled in leaving my snipes
Wherever I happened to be,
The ashes that fell from my pipes
Were not any worry to me.
But now I am sick of the mess,
The clutter I left in my track
Is causing me woe and distress,
Thank Heaven, the family's back!

There's dishes piled high in the sink,
Milk bottles all over the place,
I've lost half my laundry, I think,
And some of my shoes I can't trace—
There aren't any sheets on my bed,
The pillows are pretty near black—
The things that my better half said!
But golly, I'm glad she is back!

I'm weary of restaurant grub,
I'm weary of poker and pool,
The nights that I spent at the club
Were sad, sad affairs, as a rule;
I guess for a gay single life
I've wholly forgotten the knack,
I've longed for the kids and the wife,
Thank Heaven, the family's back!

That Sweet Yoke

Grow rich in that which never taketh rust:
Whatever fades, but fading pleasure brings.
Draw in thy beams, and humble all thy might
To that sweet yoke where lasting freedoms be;
Which breaks the clouds and opens forth the light;
That doth both shine, and give us sight to see.

—Sir Philip Sidney.

Boosters Meet Tomorrow Night

The Boosters of the First M. E. Church will meet at the church tomorrow night at 7:30. The eighteenth chapter of Matthew will be studied; memory verses will be the first and second of the twenty-fourth Psalm. Dr. H. L. Gragg will be the judge. Choir practice will follow the meeting.

Entertaining Program For Measuring Party

An entertaining program consisting of much music and recitations has been prepared for the measuring party which the Ladies Aid Society of the First M. E. Church will give at the church tonight. Refreshments will be served. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. W. R. Poole Hostess To Thursday Afternoon Club

Mrs. W. R. Poole is entertaining with a series of parties this week. The first was given this afternoon at her home on Gloucester avenue and 25th street when she was hostess to the Thursday Afternoon Club. A number of invited guests in addition to the regular club members were present. About fifty guests enoyed Mrs. Poole's hospitality.

Mrs. Craig Ralston Hostess At Bridge

Mrs. Craig Ralston was hostess this afternoon to the Friday Afternoon Bridge Club. The guests were: Mrs. H. E. Dinger, Mrs. C. W. Bailey, Mrs. Harry Moss, Mrs. Felix Sampson, Mrs. H. H. Overton, Mrs. Eugene Smith, Mrs. Wilbur Hollingsworth, Mrs. Harry Williams and her guest, Miss Katherine Wemyss of Gallatin, Tenn., Mrs. Jim Callison, Mrs. Burke Keeney, Mrs. R. W. Baker, Mrs. F. L. Rennebaum and Mrs. W. E. Frazer.

Tacky Party Given By Miss Freda Easton

Miss Freda Easton entertained with a Tacky Party at the Elks Home last night in honor of her house guest, Miss Margaret Whitfield of Kitts. There were about sixty five invited guests. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served. The favors were sticks of candy wrapped in yellow crepe paper tied with black ribbon. A general color scheme of yellow and black was carried out.

Miss Florence Heaton and Humberta Terry won the first prize award ed to the tackiest couple. "The Bowery Kids," Lucile Short and Harry McGilboney, won the second prize.

Miss Ruth Kiser of Etowah, Tenn., won honorable mention as the "school girl", as did also Alice Gloster as "Bill Street Mama." Jean Callison and Nelle Buchanan as the "twins", Charline Gagle as a "society belle", Mary Clutts as an "old fashioned lady in a wedding dress," Virginia Brosheer in an old fashioned party dress, and Margaret Whitfield and "Jimmy" Easton in old fashioned party dresses and hats worn twenty years ago. The variety of the costumes gave a colorful touch to the party and added much in the merriment of the occasion.

Bingham-Horner Wedding Solemnized Yesterday

Miss Katherine Bingham and Elwin W. Horner of Richmond, Ind., were married yesterday at high noon, at the Methodist church of Pineville. The Rev. H. M. Frakes preformed the ceremony. The ring service was used.

The bride was attended only by two little flower girls, Frances Moss and Ida Jean Phillips. She was given away by her father, Judge J. S. Bingham. The ushers were R. H. Shipp, Jr., Harry King Brooking, Raymond Jenkins of Harlan, and H. H. Alpers. Miss Mary Asher played the wedding march and Mrs. Ray Moss sang, "Not Because Your Heart Is Mine."

The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms, goldenrod, daisies, honeysuckle and other flowers.

After a buffet luncheon, which was served immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Horner left for a honeymoon trip to Chicago, Richmond, Cincinnati and other western cities.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. C. F. Clayton and Miss Ellen Clayton of Harlan, Miss Mary Riley of Morristown, Mr. Horner's mother and sister, Mrs. S. I. Horner and Mrs. V. Martingale of Richmond, Ind., Mrs. W. D. Hurst of Middlesboro, Miss Nora Colson and Dave Colson of Gibson Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Horner will make their home in Pineville.

Smoked and Salt Fish

During the summer months fresh meats pall if used in excess. Salted and smoked meats were prepared years ago especially for hot weather meals and meant much when other meat was not available.

Salted and smoked fish fills quite the same part in the diet, adding variety for persons not dependent on "preserved" foods.

And salted fish has a thirst provoking tang very beneficial to heated bodies.

Salt fish calls to mind salt codfish that we may "detest," or maybe salt mackrel that was so salty we though we'd "drink the mill-pond dry" before we were over the disaster of the dinner. But in truth, all sorts of dilicacies are prepared from these homely salt products. Many of the clever and intriguing hors d'oeuvres that are so expensive in fashionable restaurants gain their piquancy by means of a plebeian salted or smoked fish.

Smoked Herring Canapes

Four tablespoons minced herring, 2 hard boiled eggs, 3 slices tomato, 4 rounds of toast, mayonnaise, persley.

Choose the small boneless variety of herring. Pour over boiling water and let stand fifteen minutes. Drain and work smooth with a fork, adding olive oil and 2 teaspoons lemon juice to make moist enough to spread.

Cut the toast in rounds about one-fourth inch larger than the tomato slices. Spread with the herring. Cover with a slice of tomato. In the center of the tomato cut out a small place to hold half of a hard boiled egg white. Fill this with mayonnaise.

Rub the yolks of eggs through a course sieve or ricer and sprinkle on the toast around the tomato. Sprinkle minced parsley lightly over the whole and serve on tiny paper doilies on small plates. This rule is for four canapes. The smoked herring is very piquant and will answer quite as well as much more expensive anchovy paste.

Boiled Salt Mackerel

One salt mackerel, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 lemon, paprika, parsley.

Put the fish in a large pan and cover with cold water. The more water the better. Put fresh side down and use a rack if possible to allow the salt to settle to the bottom of the pan away from the fish. Change the water frequently and let freshen for twenty-four hours. Drain and wipe dry. Oil the bars of the broiler well with oil or unsalted drippings. The salt in butter makes the fish stick.

Broil the fresh side first. Brown lightly. Turn and broil the skin side. Rinse quickly in boiling water. Put on a hot platter, spread with butter and garnish with sections of lemon and sprigs of parsley. Sprinkle with paprika after spreading with butter.

A "leftover" of broiled mackerel makes a delicious touch in a tomato salad or can be served on toast with scrambled eggs.

Smoked Whitefish on Toast

Pour boiling water over fish and let stand thirty minutes. Drain. Remove skin and bones, then flake. Put a layer of the flaked fish on triangles of toast. Add a layer of hot boiled rice and pour over the whole the following sauce:

One-half cup butter, yolks 3 eggs, 1-2 lemon, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, 3-4 cup hot water.

Put butter in top of double boiler and beat until creamy. Add yolks of eggs, one at a time, beating each one till mixture is thick and creamy. Gradually beat in juice of lemon, salt and paprika. Put over hot water and slowly stir in hot water. Stir constantly until smooth and the consistency of thick cream. Remove from fire and beat well before serving.

This is an attractive dish for Sunday night supper or an informal luncheon.

GIVE REASONS FOR LOSING FIRST JOB

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Lack of sense of responsibility, unwillingness to work hard, lack of thoroughness, false notions about salary and promotion and lack of principle are the five chief reasons why 90 percent of the boys and girls of the United States lose their first jobs, according to a report made to the Chicago Association of Commerce by A. D. White, statistician of Swift and Company.

Mr. White's report noted that 90 percent of the boys and girls lose their first positions. The report also shows that in nine cases out of every ten, the loss of the position can be traced to one of the five reasons noted.

His report continues:

"Lack of sense of responsibility is shown by neglect of work, failure to put the most important things first, and the expression of a general 'I should worry' attitude.

"Unwillingness to work hard, is shown by being late to work, stretching the lunch hour and stealing a few minutes at the end of the day, watching the clock, and wasting the time by social conversations and telephone calls during business hours.

"Lack of thoroughness' is indicated most frequently by unwillingness to begin at the bottom and to go through the drudgery of mastering each step before going ahead.

"The real secret of promotion lies in constantly doing more than you are paid to do. Keep yourself underpaid. As soon as you are overpaid you are bound to go backward.

"Lack of principle is shown by concealment of mistakes, untruthfulness, and the constant making of excuses."

Chiropodists' convention says examine his feet before marrying. We say examine finger nails.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

England has said to France in substance:

"We think you have no right in the Ruhr.

"Your method of trying to collect from Germany, besides failing, is making it impossible for other claimants, like us, to collect anything, either.

"Maybe we can't force you to quit the Ruhr, but there's one thing we can insist on. Since you don't care what we think of your German policy, we want you to pay what you owe us.

Not Very Hopeful

Part of France's answer has been to grow severer still in the Ruhr.

As to her debts, she says she can't pay anything until she knows what she can get out of Germany, and she can't tell how much she must insist on having from Germany until she knows how much Americans expect the French to pay them.

France owes close to four billions to the United States, but not many Americans "expect" to get it, considering the attitude of the French toward their war obligations.

Sixes and Sevens

Anglo-French relations are such that the "entente" may fairly be considered ended.

This doesn't imply an immediate clash, but it almost certainly does mean continued European unrest. It's upset the value of European moneys, even more than before, and it threatens to mark the beginning of a period of Anglo-French unfriendliness and rivalry, the logical tendency of which is toward another war.

Of course, a belated agreement may be reached but there's small prospect of it now.

Long for "Normalcy"

Italy sides more with England than with France.

So do most of the war-time neutrals, like Spain, Holland and the Scandinavian countries.

Belgium is so overshadowed by France that she has to follow the latter's lead, but there are signs she doesn't like the Ruhr situation.

The United States having suggested an international board to decide how much Germany can pay—a plan which suits the British but not the French—England counts on American sympathy, too.

All this is natural. France is keeping Europe in a ferment. The rest of the world wants "normalcy."

Paying Nothing Now

In some respects, Dr. Stresemann, Germany's new chancellor, is more deaf of the French than his predecessor, Herr Cuno.

Cuno wasn't paying any cash to France, on account of her reparation claims, but he was turning over considerable quantities of manufactured goods and raw materials. Stresemann has cut off even his tribute.

All that Germany's got, he says, she needs right at home.

Danger Both Ways

Stresemann is a little more the "people's" representative than Cuno was, but to a considerable extent he stands for German "big business," nevertheless.

He faces two dangers—on one side, an uprising of the royalists; on the other side, an uprising of the reds.

Aluminum-bound running boards with corrugated rubber mats and step pads.
Aluminum kick plates.
Grip handles on body rails.
Thief-proof transmission lock.
Snubbers.

Many motorists who have always insisted on the best in everything they buy, have discarded their heavy, bulky, high-priced cars and have replaced them with the Studebaker Big-Six.

And they report that, in every way, it represents precisely their conception of what a really fine motor car should be.

They are enthusiastic over their all-round satisfaction with the Big-Six because of its dependability, surplus power, extreme comfort for seven passengers, the completeness of its equipment and its fine appearance.

The series 24 model—the finest Big-Six Studebaker ever built—presents a value unapproached by other cars at anywhere near the price. And its nominal cost of operation is a source of continual satisfaction.

Everything for which one can wish in motoring convenience, comfort and utility has been provided—even to an extra disc wheel complete with tire, tube and tire cover; handsome nickel-plated bumpers, front and rear; automatic gasoline signal mounted on instrument board, and many other features.

The low price of the Big-Six is due to large volume, the fact that Studebaker overhead is shared by three models, the manufacture of all vital parts in Studebaker plants and Studebaker's vast physical and financial resources.

After 71 years of service, the name Studebaker enjoys confidence and respect more than ever.

COPPER CLAD

WORLD'S GREATEST RANGE

at our store

The Copper-Clad Crank—a special factory representative—will be here during the entire week mentioned above, to show and explain the many Copper-Clad exclusive features. He will explain about range rust and the pure sheet copper lining in Copper-Clads. He will tell in detail just why Copper-Clad owners must be "Range Happy" folks.

SEE ASBESTOS SWEAT!!

No matter whether you want a range now or next year, or any other time, it will pay you to come and see the Copper-Clad Crank make Asbestos Sweat. He takes any piece of Asbestos, puts it between two iron plates—heats it—and shows you sweat. You can roll it up in drops with your finger. You see for yourself WHY ranges rust out. Then you will KNOW why the pure sheet copper lining of Copper-Clad adds many years to its life.

Dempsey Training for Coming Firpo Fight With Cheerful Confidence

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS West Va Lake N Y Aug 2 —It's a different Dempsey he finds training here from the Dempsey who a short two months ago was cutting himself at Great Falls Mont for his fight with Tom Gibbons

Out in Montana Jack was a man who seemed to bear on his shoulders a secret worry The old boyish tricks that were his dis-wishins marks were conspicuous by their absence His training was forced a necessary evil and one to which he did not take kindly

He asked everyone he met who had seen Gibbons a million questions as to the challenger's ability weight etc

He acted like a man not sure of himself

But that Dempsey is gone

Doesn't Fear Tommy Now

The same old jolly laughing Dempsey is here The Dempsey who is not a care in the world The Dempsey who fears no man and is willing to take them as they come

That fight with Gibbons was what I needed to put me on edge again he says

I was slow in getting into my old shape I wasn't timing my punches right and the old judgment at distance was missing And for a while I got soft I feared that I wouldn't be able to go the route

I was wrong I'll admit

But this is different I'm not going to Gibbons's way Like that is the fight with him went on I confided myself setting better and better

Old Bravado Returns

I won the fifth first prize and a thousand dollars I was one of them at the beginning

Gibbons says that he will win the championship with a wallop and my only chance is to duck his blows

Well Tom doesn't have to forget that I know as much about him as he does about me and he'll see all his tricks I have

As for my coming fight with Firpo I feel certain of the outcome

Of course he must have a punch or he couldn't have knocked out so many men but any man with a punch is dangerous

But I know that I will have all my stuff but I can the distance that my judgment of time and timing is perfect when I am in shape and I am not afraid

As long as I feel that I can have the best I will not lack confidence in my power and I am ready to do the best I have ever done

I only hate boxing when I feel that I haven't given my best

Two Veteran Stars On Ragged Edge in Majors

NEW YORK Aug 22—It seems that the present season will mark the passing of two great shortstops Everett Scott and Rabbit Maranville

Scott is slowing up badly His range is as good as ever and his accuracy on a ground ball when he reaches it is as many but his legs no feeling him

Scott once a wonder in going to his right or left is no longer a demon in either direction Many a ground ball is off his past him for a base but that would have been an easy chance ten years ago

It is said that the New York club has secured Shortstop Bohy of Fall more for next year Bohy is said to be good but the big show Scott however is certain to bring on for several years more except 1924 marks his passing as a star

It is said that Maranville's speed episode during a recent trip of the Pittsburgh club to Boston has worn out the welcome as a Pirate His locust to drive a car in Massachusetts was taken away

While Maranville may not pass from the majors it is almost certainly that Pittsburgh will have a new man at short when the 1921 season is ushered in

THE GRIST O' GOTHAM

BY CASUAL STROLLER

NEW YORK Aug 22—Broadway is just as prominent as Main street Broadway typifying the Big Town—as Main street does the Small Town—holds on to tradition

Saturday timed as both day probably still is to many a New Yorker For it certainly is the favorite day for shining shoes just as it was in the days of our youth Saturday night or Sunday morning to be exact

A sizzled veteran who has had one main shoe shining stand at Eighth avenue and 52nd street for many years

lamented the day of President Harding's funeral that he had only given three shines all day

People don't get cut shined on holidays he said Saturday and Sunday are the big days Working people get slicked up then I do 50 or 60 those days And I make good money—but I get all tuckered out

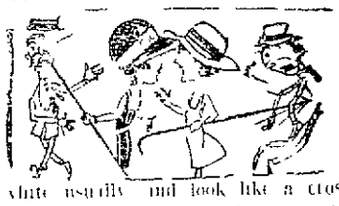
James Reilly bell captain at the Waldorf Astoria is one of those to whom the passing of President Harding meant a sincere personal sorrow Reilly was a bell hop on the occasion of Mr Harding's last visit to New York But he rendered such excellent service to the party that the president spoke about it to the management Reilly was promptly given his present position as captain

Ever try to get rid of a boy or girl for a few hours by trying to put them in a movie show in New York? It can't be done unless you get a ticket for yourself and go there Gatekeepers won't let young people under 16 or so enter without an adult companion

There's a city ordinance covering it—intended however to prevent school children playing hookey But movie managers use it to keep them out at all times Saves wear and tear on the acoustics

So youngsters keen on the movies hang around the door until they can slide in under the proxy parentage of an obliging adult

When I left been carrying canes—swagger sticks—for some time in New York Now just when the fad seemed to be wearing off girls have started to carry cane stuffs They're white usually and look like a cross between a shepherd's crook and an Alpine stock



What's the correct pronunciation of Broadway Most people coming to town put the accent on the first syllable Listen to the real New Yorker—if you can find one He almost always puts the accent on the second syllable

Butchers local civic summer lives One afternoon off a week isn't enough Practically every butcher shop in the upper Sixth avenue districts in the fashionable Fifties closes at 1 o'clock every afternoon during July and August

Who said the Great White Way was passing A billboard advertising company convinced that electric sign space is worth so much more down Broadway than floor space has rented the entire second floor on the Broadway Cortlandt building at Broadway and 44th street for the sole purpose of closing up the windows with a huge electric sign This is the old Claridge Hotel of dizzy fame and heroine of Record's The advertising company is paying a stiff rental for the entire floor space and is putting up in order the sign over the Broadway windows 102 feet long and 25 feet high

REV. H. BRAZELTON KIWANIS SPEAKER

Middlesboro Club Will Attend LaFollette Fair Next Thursday

"One Plus One," was the subject of the address made by the Rev. Howard Brazelton to the forty-five Kiwanians who were present at the regular Thursday luncheon. Mr. Brazelton said that in plain words his subject meant teamwork.

"When things are not done, it is a sign that someone is slumping on the job; that somebody is willing to let George do it. Towns are built by teamwork; baseball and football games are won by teamwork. You and I as Kiwanians are building a better city, a better community. We must not shirk our responsibility."

He paid an enthusiastic tribute to the Kiwanis magazine which he says he prizes above all the other periodicals which come to his desk.

Previous to the talk by Mr. Brazelton, president A. P. Liebig read an invitation from the Kiwanis Club in LaFollette asking the Middlesboro club to be present at the Tri-County Fair at LaFollette next Thursday. It was voted that the Kiwanians here would attend in a body in lieu of their regular Thursday luncheon. He also read a letter of appreciation from the Marion, Ohio, Kiwanis Club in reply to resolutions of condolence on the recent occasion of the death of a distinguished fellow Kiwanian, Warren G. Harding.

Mr. Liebig also announced that Knoxville had made twenty reservations for the coming district convention and that they had asked for fifty more.

The silent boost was a box of cigars given by Hugh Allen.

The attendance prize, presented by chairman R. L. Maddox was won by Jesse Stanley. Six guests were present at the luncheon. Clyde Lawson who is connected with the Lovett Fruit and Produce company at Harlan was present in place of T. Russ Hill now on his vacation. Mr. Lawson is a member of the Harlan Kiwanis club, and is now managing the local office of the company. The other guests included Miss Mary Watts Brown of the banking commission of Frankfort, Miss Golde Rardin, secretary to Governor Morrow, John H. Stember of Louisville, who was the guest of R. K. Judy and Mr. Hughes also of Louisville, a guest of Dr. J. H. Brooks.

PRESIDENT ARRAS HAS GOOD RECORD

International Kiwanis President Will Be Here For Convention Next Month

Edmund F. Arras, of Columbus, O., recently elected president of Kiwanis International, will be in Middlesboro for the district Kiwanis convention.

Mr. Arras is a veteran in Kiwanis service, as he joined the Kiwanis Club of Columbus in 1916, before the club had received its charter. In a short time he was elected director which position he still holds, as the constitution of the Columbus club was especially amended so that he will do so as long as he occupies a district or International office.

In 1918, he was elected Lieutenant Governor of the Ohio District, and Governor in 1919. Following this he served as Trustee of his district, and during his three years in that office, he served two years as a member of the International Finance Committee, two years of the Executive Committee.

At the Atlantic Convention, May 1923, he was elected to the highest office in the gift of Kiwanis International by a vote of two to one, which later was made unanimous.

Mr. Arras was born in 1875 and is a descendant of pioneer Ohio families. After his preparatory education in the schools of Dayton and Columbus, he acted as private secretary to Judge Eli P. Evans, who for twenty-five years was judge of the Common pleas Court. Then, in order to work his way through Ohio University, Mr. Arras began the management of rental property. He graduated from the Law School in 1895, and was admitted to the Ohio bar in the following year, on his twenty-first birthday. While attending the university, he was Historian of the law class, and President of Horton Literary Society. He practiced law for four years, but abandoned it in 1900, to devote his entire attention to his rapidly growing real estate business.

Mr. Arras is a past president and director of the Columbus Advertising Club, director and chairman of the Rental Committee of the Columbus Real Estate Board, has occupied various positions in the Chamber of Commerce, is a member of the Columbus Automobile Club, the Hambolt Country Club, the Columbus Athletic Club, the Aladdin Country Club, the State and National Realtors Association, the Building Managers Association, is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Ohio State Sounday School Association, member of the Columbus Council of Churches, President of the Adult Bible Class Association of Ohio, member of the Franklin Bar Association, the Ohio State University Alumni Association, the Shrine Club of Columbus, member of all branches of Masonry, including the Grotto and Shrine.

Mr. Arras is accompanied on this most extensive intinerary of Kiwanis District Conventions by his wife, who is President of the Columbus Federation of Womens Clubs, and also active in church, social and literary organizations.

OPEN LETTER FROM MR. YARBER

TO THE PUBLIC:

It has come to my knowledge that some few men in Middlesboro and vicinity, who evidently wish to injure my business, have spread the information amongst the trade my company solicits the fact that I am a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and further, that I am one of the officials of that organization. They wish to prejudice me and my business with the trade, many of whom are outspoken in their opposition to this organization. Without going into the merits or demerits of this organization, of which I know nothing by reason of the fact that I have never joined, and my knowledge of their activities is confined to my reading in news items, just as all men in Middlesboro have done.

I was born and raised in this community; I have tried at all times to be a good citizen; I have never knowingly injured any man; and with my limited advantages in early life have succeeded in a small way. In all matters looking to the betterment of Middlesboro, I have borne my share of the burdens.

When I cast my vote at the Council meeting last Saturday night I did not fully realize the significance of same.

Why I should be the target for undue and unmerited criticism and why my business should be boycotted by an unfounded and untrue rumor, I cannot understand. If honest, upright and clean living in a community for thirty odd years warrants no better treatment at the hands of its citizenship, than I have received in this instance, we should not strive to be good citizens.

THOMAS YARBER,
General Manager Chero-Cola Bottling Co.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 23rd day of August, 1923.
